PROGRAMME SUMMARY IN RELATION TO THE BASE PROSPECTUS

The “Programme Summary in relation to this Base Prospectus” on pages 7 to 34 of the Base Prospectus is amended as follows:

1. The Element B.4b is deleted and replaced by the following:

B.4b	Trend information: In 2018, although economic growth remained significantly positive in the major regions of the world, significant divergences emerged. Buoyed by the budgetary measures of the Trump administration, the US economy posted an excellent performance. This could not be said of the eurozone, where growth was very disappointing due to both internal and external factors. And lastly, the situation gradually deteriorated in emerging countries, this being very exposed to the Chinese downturn and to international trade tensions. USA 2018 was synonymous with solid economic performances for the USA: after a cautious start early in the year, growth accelerated markedly in Q2 and Q3, taking advantage of the budgetary stimulus provided by the 2017 Tax Cut and Jobs Act. Whilst effects on consumer spending were only visible subsequently (consumer spending having posted particularly low levels in Q1, only accelerating at the end of the year), non-residential investment rose significantly in the first six months of 2018, before seeing a clear slowdown in Q3. Residential investment, on its part, had an impact on growth throughout the year. Confidence remained particularly buoyant in all sectors of the US economy. In households, optimism rose steadily, and only Q4 revealed some signs of a slowdown. Corporate confidence, both in terms of services as well as manufacturing activity, remained close to its highest levels for most of the year. The labour market continued to improve, even breaking previous records according to many indicators. As for wages, growth is gradually nearing trends observed in previous cycles, although it still remains below those levels. In the first half of the year, underlying inflation and official inflation recovered well from their 2017 low points, whilst the temporary negative effects dissipated. More specifically, the general index took advantage, to a large extent, of the positive baseline effects of energy prices. Nevertheless, with the lessening of these effects in the second half of the year, both price indexes ended up by converging at lower levels, reaching just over 2% currently. The Federal Reserve continue to harden its monetary policy by raising interest rates four times during the year, in the light of solid growth and stable inflation. The introduction of customs duties by Washington on a large number of Chinese imports and other key trade partners added a dimension of conflict to US trade policy, stoking fears of a trade war between the USA and China, the negative effects of which will have an impact on trade growth and confidence. Eurozone European economic figures were very disappointing in 2018. GDP growth in the eurozone in fact was only 1% during the first three quarters of the year, compared to 2% in the last three quarters of 2017. Several negative factors were at play. First, industrial activity and exports were penalised by the high level of the euro at the beginning of the year and by international trade tensions. Second, for temporary reasons (linked to changes in anti-pollution standards), German car production fell significantly in Q3. The rise in the price per barrel up to October was also a negative factor. Third, political uncertainty remained a major issue, to a varying extent, in the major countries: difficulty in reaching a government majority in Germany at the beginning of the year, budgetary trial of strength

between Italy and the European Commission from the summer onwards, and significant social tensions in France in Q4. We would add that at the end of the year, visibility regarding Brexit arrangements remained poor. In terms of inflation, whilst the increase in the general index temporarily exceeded 2% over a year on account of the rise in energy prices, the increase in the underlying index (excluding energy and supplies) remained stuck at around 1%. In December, the European Central Bank brought an end to the asset purchase programme, but its capacity to raise its interest rates in 2019 remained very uncertain.

Emerging economies

Despite significant divergences between countries, growth of emerging economies was robust in the first quarter of 2018 against a buoyant global backdrop. By contrast, from the second quarter onwards, this dynamic was somewhat checked. First, standardisation of US monetary policy along with the marked appreciation of the dollar, led many emerging central banks to bring an end to their monetary easing policy, and even raise their interest rates, including among the central banks of Asian countries which had, until now, been relatively spared. Second, emerging markets continued to struggle, weakened by the increase in geopolitical/international risks and idiosyncratic risks which turned into real crises (Turkey, Argentina, etc.). Lastly, the trade war between the USA and China impacted emerging economies in many respects: i) it limited growth of world trade and therefore real growth and ii) it raised the level of uncertainty and risk aversion on the financial markets, toughening the conditions of financing in emerging countries. And finally, the global growth of emerging countries in 2018 should be close to 5% as an annual average, i.e. slightly higher than 2017 (4.8%). However, this is a baseline effect linked to the recovery of growth in India, most emerging economies and more specifically in Asia, having slowed.

Interest rate markets

Interest rate markets were marked by a drop in long rates on sovereign bonds. US 10-year rates ended the year at 2.6%, after having reached a high point of 3.26% in early November. At the end of December, the German 10-year rate fell below 0.2%, i.e. a level below that seen in early 2018. In addition, the market very broadly revised in a downward direction expectations of interest rate rises for the Fed and the ECB. The market is now even anticipating a drop in US interest rates in 2020. This appetite for risk-free assets can be explained by investors' fears regarding the solidity of the global economy in an environment where the major central banks are gradually withdrawing their measures of support. In fact, the major central banks - at different speeds - are standardising their monetary policy. The Fed has already initiated the reduction of the size of its balance sheet and the ECB ended its asset purchase programme in December.

Equity markets

The MSCI AC was down -11.2% in local currencies and -6.7% in euros. This was, globally, a year which experienced a widespread and significant downturn on equity markets. In local currencies, the USA was down -6.3%, the eurozone -14.7%, Europe -13.1%, emerging markets -12.3% and Japan 16.8%. The year can be split into four periods. January was positive in the wake of 2017; the downturn took it to the end of March, the rise in US long rates generating a first upturn, especially as, at the end of March, the intention of the White House to remedy the bilateral imbalances in the balance of trade, began to have an impact. There then followed a period of divergence between the USA, buoyed by the positive effects of its tax reform, and the rest of the world, up to October. For the second time this year, the increase in long rates caused a widespread fall on equity markets, including the US market, and notably the most prominent technology securities. The downturn even accelerated in December, a historically rare event.

RESUME DU PROGRAMME EN FRANCAIS (PROGRAMME SUMMARY IN FRENCH)

Le “Résumé du Programme en Français” figurant aux pages 35 à 63 du Prospectus de Base est modifié comme suit :

1. L’Elément B.4b est supprimé et remplacé comme suit :

B.4b	Information sur les tendances:  Etats-Unis  L’année 2018 a été synonyme de solides performances économiques pour les États-Unis : après un démarrage timide en début d’année, la croissance a nettement accéléré au T2 et au T3, profitant du stimulus budgétaire apporté par le « Tax Cut and Jobs Act » de 2017. Si les effets sur la consommation des particuliers n’ont été visibles que dans un second temps (les dépenses personnelles ayant affiché des niveaux particulièrement faibles au T1, pour accélérer seulement en fin d’année), l’investissement non résidentiel a fortement progressé durant les 6 premiers mois de 2018 avant d’accuser un net ralentissement au T3. L’investissement résidentiel, quant à lui, a pesé sur la croissance tout au long de l’année. La confiance est restée particulièrement bien orientée dans tous les secteurs de l’économie américaine. Chez les ménages, l’optimisme n’a cessé de se renforcer, et seul le T4 a révélé quelques signes de ralentissement. La confiance des entreprises, tant du côté des services que de l’activité manufacturière, est restée proche de ses sommets durant la majeure partie de l’année. Le marché du travail a poursuivi son amélioration, surpassant même les précédents pics selon de nombreux indicateurs. Du côté des salaires, la croissance s’approche peu à peu des tendances observées lors des cycles précédents, même si elle reste encore inférieure. Durant la première partie de l’année, l’inflation sous-jacente et l’inflation officielle ont fortement rebondi de leurs points bas de 2017 alors que les effets négatifs temporaires se dissipait. Plus particulièrement, l’indice général a profité dans une large mesure des effets de base positifs des prix de l’énergie. Néanmoins, avec la diminution de ces effets en seconde partie d’année, les deux indices des prix ont fini par converger vers des niveaux plus faibles pour s’inscrire à un peu plus de 2 % à l’heure actuelle. La Réserve fédérale a continué de durcir sa politique monétaire en procédant à 4 relèvements de taux durant l’année, au vu de la croissance solide et de l’inflation stable. La mise en place des droits de douane par Washington à l’encontre d’un grand nombre d’importations chinoises et d’autres partenaires commerciaux clés a conféré à la politique commerciale américaine un aspect conflictuel, alimentant les craintes d’une guerre commerciale entre les États-Unis et la Chine, dont les effets négatifs pèsent sur la croissance des échanges et la confiance.  Zone euro
-------------	--

Les chiffres économiques européens ont beaucoup déçu en 2018. En effet, la croissance du PIB de la zone euro n'a été que de 1% au cours des 3 premiers trimestres de l'année, contre 2% au cours des trois derniers trimestres de 2017. Plusieurs facteurs négatifs ont joué. Tout d'abord, l'activité industrielle et les exportations ont été pénalisés par le niveau élevé de l'euro en début d'année et par les tensions commerciales internationales. De plus, pour des raisons temporaires (liées à des changements de normes anti-pollution) la production automobile allemande a fortement reculé au T3. La hausse du cours du baril jusqu'en octobre a également été un facteur négatif. Par ailleurs, l'incertitude politique est restée un thème majeur, à des degrés divers, dans les grands pays : difficulté à constituer une majorité gouvernementale en Allemagne en début d'année, bras de fer budgétaire entre l'Italie et la Commission Européenne à partir de l'été, importantes tensions sociales en France au T4. Ajoutons qu'en fin d'année la visibilité concernant les modalités du Brexit restait très faible. Concernant l'inflation, si la hausse de l'indice général a temporairement dépassé 2% sur un an en raison de la hausse des prix de l'énergie, celle de l'indice sous-jacent (hors énergie et alimentation) est restée bloquée aux alentours de 1%. La Banque Centrale Européenne a mis fin, en décembre, à son programme d'achats d'actifs, mais sa capacité à relever ses taux directeurs en 2019 restait très incertaine.

Economies émergentes

Malgré des divergences significatives entre les pays, la croissance des économies émergentes a été robuste au premier trimestre 2018 dans un contexte mondial porteur. En revanche, à partir du second trimestre, cette dynamique s'est quelque peu enrayée. Tout d'abord, la normalisation de la politique monétaire américaine ainsi que la forte appréciation du dollar ont conduit de nombreuses banques centrales émergentes à mettre un terme à leur politique d'assouplissement monétaire voire à augmenter leurs taux, y compris parmi les banques centrales des pays asiatiques jusque-là relativement épargnées. Ensuite, les marchés émergents ont continué d'être à la peine, affaiblis par l'accroissement des risques géopolitiques/internationaux et des risques idiosyncratiques qui se sont mués en véritables épisodes de crise (Turquie, Argentine etc). Enfin, la guerre commerciale entre les Etats-Unis et la Chine a pesé sur les économies émergentes à de nombreux égards : i) elle a limité l'expansion du commerce mondial et donc de la croissance réelle et ii) elle a accru le niveau d'incertitude et l'aversion au risque des marchés financiers durcissant les conditions de financements dans les pays émergents. In fine, la croissance globale des émergents en 2018 devrait être proche de 5% en moyenne annuelle soit légèrement supérieure à celle de l'année 2017 (4.8%). Il s'agit toutefois d'un effet de base lié au rebond de la croissance en Inde, la plupart des économies émergentes et plus particulièrement en Asie, ayant ralenti.

Marchés de taux

Les marchés de taux ont été marqués par la baisse des taux longs des obligations souveraines. Le taux 10 ans américain a fini l'année à 2.6% après avoir atteint un pic à 3.26% début novembre. Le taux 10 ans allemand est passé fin décembre sous la barre des 0.2% soit un niveau inférieur à celui observé au début de 2018. De plus, le marché a révisé très largement à la baisse les anticipations de hausse de taux pour la Fed et la BCE. Le marché anticipe même maintenant une baisse des taux US en

		2020. Cet appétit pour les actifs sans-risque s'explique par la crainte des investisseurs quant à la solidité de l'économie mondiale dans un environnement où les grandes banques centrales retirent peu à peu leurs mesures de soutien. En effet, les grandes banques centrales normalisent -à des rythmes différents- leur politique monétaire. La Fed a déjà entamé la réduction de la taille de son bilan et la BCE a arrêté son programme de rachat d'actif en décembre. Marchés d'actions Le MSCI AC a perdu -11.2% en devises locales et -6.7% en euros. Il s'agit globalement d'une année de forte baisse généralisée sur les marchés d'actions. En devises locales, les Etats-Unis ont baissé de -6.3%, la zone euro -14.7%, l'Europe de -13.1%, les marchés émergents de -12.3% et le Japon de 16.8%. L'année se divise en 4 périodes. Le mois de janvier a été positif dans la foulée de 2017, puis la baisse l'a emporté jusqu'à fin mars, la hausse des taux longs américains provoquant un premier décrochage, d'autant que fin mars la volonté de la maison blanche de corriger les déséquilibres bilatéraux de balance commerciale ont commencé à peser. S'en est suivi une période de divergence entre les Etats-Unis, soutenus par les effets positifs de sa réforme fiscale et le reste du monde jusqu'en octobre. Pour la seconde fois de l'année, la hausse des taux longs provoqua une chute généralisée des marchés d'actions, y compris du marché américain, et notamment des valeurs de technologie les plus en vue. La baisse s'est même accélérée en Décembre, fait historiquement très rare.

ISSUE SPECIFIC SUMMARY

The “Issue Specific Summary” on pages 468 to 495 of the Base Prospectus is amended as follows:

1. The Element B.4b is deleted and replaced by the following:

B.4b	Trend information: In 2018, although economic growth remained significantly positive in the major regions of the world, significant divergences emerged. Buoyed by the budgetary measures of the Trump administration, the US economy posted an excellent performance. This could not be said of the eurozone, where growth was very disappointing due to both internal and external factors. And lastly, the situation gradually deteriorated in emerging countries, this being very exposed to the Chinese downturn and to international trade tensions. USA 2018 was synonymous with solid economic performances for the USA: after a cautious start early in the year, growth accelerated markedly in Q2 and Q3, taking advantage of the budgetary stimulus provided by the 2017 Tax Cut and Jobs Act. Whilst effects on consumer spending were only visible subsequently (consumer spending having posted particularly low levels in Q1, only accelerating at the end of the year), non-residential investment rose significantly in the first six months of 2018, before seeing a clear slowdown in Q3. Residential investment, on its part, had an impact on growth throughout the year. Confidence remained particularly buoyant in all sectors of the US economy. In households, optimism rose steadily, and only Q4 revealed some signs of a slowdown. Corporate confidence, both in terms of services as well as manufacturing activity, remained close to its highest levels for most of the year. The labour market continued to improve, even breaking previous records according to many indicators. As for wages, growth is gradually nearing trends observed in previous cycles, although it still remains below those levels. In the first half of the year, underlying inflation and official inflation recovered well from their 2017 low points, whilst the temporary negative effects dissipated. More specifically, the general index took advantage, to a large extent, of the positive baseline effects of energy prices. Nevertheless, with the lessening of these effects in the second half of the year, both price indexes ended up by converging at lower levels, reaching just over 2% currently. The Federal Reserve continue to harden its monetary policy by raising interest rates four times during the year, in the light of solid growth and stable inflation. The introduction of customs duties by Washington on a large number of Chinese imports and other key trade partners added a dimension of conflict to US trade policy, stoking fears of a trade war between the USA and China, the negative effects of which will have an impact on trade growth and confidence. Eurozone European economic figures were very disappointing in 2018. GDP growth in the eurozone in fact was only 1% during the first three quarters of the year, compared to 2% in the last three quarters of 2017. Several negative factors were at play. First, industrial activity and exports were penalised by the high level of the euro at the beginning of the year and by international trade tensions. Second, for temporary reasons (linked to changes in anti-
-------------	--

	pollution standards), German car production fell significantly in Q3. The rise in the price per barrel up to October was also a negative factor. Third, political uncertainty remained a major issue, to a varying extent, in the major countries: difficulty in reaching a government majority in Germany at the beginning of the year, budgetary trial of strength between Italy and the European Commission from the summer onwards, and significant social tensions in France in Q4. We would add that at the end of the year, visibility regarding Brexit arrangements remained poor. In terms of inflation, whilst the increase in the general index temporarily exceeded 2% over a year on account of the rise in energy prices, the increase in the underlying index (excluding energy and supplies) remained stuck at around 1%. In December, the European Central Bank brought an end to the asset purchase programme, but its capacity to raise its interest rates in 2019 remained very uncertain. Emerging economies Despite significant divergences between countries, growth of emerging economies was robust in the first quarter of 2018 against a buoyant global backdrop. By contrast, from the second quarter onwards, this dynamic was somewhat checked. First, standardisation of US monetary policy along with the marked appreciation of the dollar, led many emerging central banks to bring an end to their monetary easing policy, and even raise their interest rates, including among the central banks of Asian countries which had, until now, been relatively spared. Second, emerging markets continued to struggle, weakened by the increase in geopolitical/international risks and idiosyncratic risks which turned into real crises (Turkey, Argentina, etc.). Lastly, the trade war between the USA and China impacted emerging economies in many respects: i) it limited growth of world trade and therefore real growth and ii) it raised the level of uncertainty and risk aversion on the financial markets, toughening the conditions of financing in emerging countries. And finally, the global growth of emerging countries in 2018 should be close to 5% as an annual average, i.e. slightly higher than 2017 (4.8%). However, this is a baseline effect linked to the recovery of growth in India, most emerging economies and more specifically in Asia, having slowed. Interest rate markets Interest rate markets were marked by a drop in long rates on sovereign bonds. US 10-year rates ended the year at 2.6%, after having reached a high point of 3.26% in early November. At the end of December, the German 10-year rate fell below 0.2%, i.e. a level below that seen in early 2018. In addition, the market very broadly revised in a downward direction expectations of interest rate rises for the Fed and the ECB. The market is now even anticipating a drop in US interest rates in 2020. This appetite for risk-free assets can be explained by investors' fears regarding the solidity of the global economy in an environment where the major central banks are gradually withdrawing their measures of support. In fact, the major central banks - at different speeds - are standardising their monetary policy. The Fed has already initiated the reduction of the size of its balance sheet and the ECB ended its asset purchase programme in December. Equity markets The MSCI AC was down -11.2% in local currencies and -6.7% in euros. This was, globally, a year which experienced a widespread and significant downturn on equity markets. In local currencies, the USA was down -6.3%, the eurozone -14.7%, Europe -13.1%, emerging markets -12.3% and Japan 16.8%. The year can be split into four periods. January was positive in the wake of 2017; the downturn took it to the end of March, the rise in US long rates generating a first upturn, especially as, at the end of March, the intention of the White House to remedy the bilateral imbalances in the balance of trade, began to have an impact. There then followed a period of divergence between the USA, buoyed by the positive effects of its tax reform, and the rest of the world, up to October. For the second time this year, the increase in long rates caused a widespread fall on equity markets, including the US market, and notably the most prominent technology securities. The downturn even accelerated in December, a historically rare event.

RESUME SPECIFIQUE DE L'EMISSION EN FRANÇAIS (ISSUE SPECIFIC SUMMARY IN FRENCH)

Le “Résumé Spécifique de l’Emission en Français” figurant aux pages 496 à 524 du Prospectus de Base est modifié comme suit :

1. L’Elément B.4b est supprimé et remplacé par l’Elément B.4b suivant :

B.4b	Information sur les tendances: En 2018, même si la croissance économique est restée significativement positive dans les grandes régions du monde, d’importantes divergences sont apparues. Soutenue par les mesures budgétaires de l’Administration Trump, l’économie américaine a affiché une très bonne tenue. Il n’en a pas été de même pour la zone euro, où la croissance a été très décevante en raison de facteurs à la fois internes et externes. Enfin, la situation s’est dégradée progressivement dans les pays émergents, très exposés au ralentissement chinois et aux tensions commerciales internationales. Etats-Unis L’année 2018 a été synonyme de solides performances économiques pour les États-Unis : après un démarrage timide en début d’année, la croissance a nettement accéléré au T2 et au T3, profitant du stimulus budgétaire apporté par le « Tax Cut and Jobs Act » de 2017. Si les effets sur la consommation des particuliers n’ont été visibles que dans un second temps (les dépenses personnelles ayant affiché des niveaux particulièrement faibles au T1, pour accélérer seulement en fin d’année), l’investissement non résidentiel a fortement progressé durant les 6 premiers mois de 2018 avant d’accuser un net ralentissement au T3. L’investissement résidentiel, quant à lui, a pesé sur la croissance tout au long de l’année. La confiance est restée particulièrement bien orientée dans tous les secteurs de l’économie américaine. Chez les ménages, l’optimisme n’a cessé de se renforcer, et seul le T4 a révélé quelques signes de ralentissement. La confiance des entreprises, tant du côté des services que de l’activité manufacturière, est restée proche de ses sommets durant la majeure partie de l’année. Le marché du travail a poursuivi son amélioration, surpassant même les précédents pics selon de nombreux indicateurs. Du côté des salaires, la croissance s’approche peu à peu des tendances observées lors des cycles précédents, même si elle reste encore inférieure. Durant la première partie de l’année, l’inflation sous-jacente et l’inflation officielle ont fortement rebondi de leurs points bas de 2017 alors que les effets négatifs temporaires se dissipait. Plus particulièrement, l’indice général a profité dans une large mesure des effets de base positifs des prix de l’énergie. Néanmoins, avec la diminution de ces effets en seconde partie d’année, les deux indices des prix ont fini par converger vers des niveaux plus faibles pour s’inscrire à un peu plus de 2 % à l’heure actuelle. La Réserve fédérale a continué de durcir sa politique monétaire en procédant à 4 relèvements de taux durant l’année, au vu de la croissance solide et de l’inflation stable. La mise en place des droits de douane par Washington à l’encontre d’un grand nombre d’importations chinoises et d’autres partenaires commerciaux clés a conféré à la politique commerciale américaine un aspect conflictuel, alimentant les craintes d’une guerre

	commerciale entre les États-Unis et la Chine, dont les effets négatifs pèseront sur la croissance des échanges et la confiance. Zone euro Les chiffres économiques européens ont beaucoup déçu en 2018. En effet, la croissance du PIB de la zone euro n'a été que de 1% au cours des 3 premiers trimestres de l'année, contre 2% au cours des trois derniers trimestres de 2017. Plusieurs facteurs négatifs ont joué. Tout d'abord, l'activité industrielle et les exportations ont été pénalisés par le niveau élevé de l'euro en début d'année et par les tensions commerciales internationales. De plus, pour des raisons temporaires (liées à des changements de normes anti-pollution) la production automobile allemande a fortement reculé au T3. La hausse du cours du baril jusqu'en octobre a également été un facteur négatif. Par ailleurs, l'incertitude politique est restée un thème majeur, à des degrés divers, dans les grands pays : difficulté à constituer une majorité gouvernementale en Allemagne en début d'année, bras de fer budgétaire entre l'Italie et la Commission Européenne à partir de l'été, importantes tensions sociales en France au T4. Ajoutons qu'en fin d'année la visibilité concernant les modalités du Brexit restait très faible. Concernant l'inflation, si la hausse de l'indice général a temporairement dépassé 2% sur un an en raison de la hausse des prix de l'énergie, celle de l'indice sous-jacent (hors énergie et alimentation) est restée bloquée aux alentours de 1%. La Banque Centrale Européenne a mis fin, en décembre, à son programme d'achats d'actifs, mais sa capacité à relever ses taux directeurs en 2019 restait très incertaine. Economies émergentes Malgré des divergences significatives entre les pays, la croissance des économies émergentes a été robuste au premier trimestre 2018 dans un contexte mondial porteur. En revanche, à partir du second trimestre, cette dynamique s'est quelque peu enrayée. Tout d'abord, la normalisation de la politique monétaire américaine ainsi que la forte appréciation du dollar ont conduit de nombreuses banques centrales émergentes à mettre un terme à leur politique d'assouplissement monétaire voire à augmenter leurs taux, y compris parmi les banques centrales des pays asiatiques jusque-là relativement épargnées. Ensuite, les marchés émergents ont continué d'être à la peine, affaiblis par l'accroissement des risques géopolitiques/internationaux et des risques idiosyncratiques qui se sont mués en véritables épisodes de crise (Turquie, Argentine etc). Enfin, la guerre commerciale entre les Etats-Unis et la Chine a pesé sur les économies émergentes à de nombreux égards : i) elle a limité l'expansion du commerce mondial et donc de la croissance réelle et ii) elle a accru le niveau d'incertitude et l'aversion au risque des marchés financiers durcissant les conditions de financements dans les pays émergents. In fine, la croissance globale des émergents en 2018 devrait être proche de 5% en moyenne annuelle soit légèrement supérieure à celle de l'année 2017 (4.8%). Il s'agit toutefois d'un effet de base lié au rebond de la croissance en Inde, la plupart des économies émergentes et plus particulièrement en Asie, ayant ralenti. Marchés de taux Les marchés de taux ont été marqués par la baisse des taux longs des obligations souveraines. Le taux 10 ans américain a fini l'année à 2.6%
--	--

		après avoir atteint un pic à 3.26% début novembre. Le taux 10 ans allemand est passé fin décembre sous la barre des 0.2% soit un niveau inférieur à celui observé au début de 2018. De plus, le marché a révisé très largement à la baisse les anticipations de hausse de taux pour la Fed et la BCE. Le marché anticipe même maintenant une baisse des taux US en 2020. Cet appétit pour les actifs sans-risque s'explique par la crainte des investisseurs quant à la solidité de l'économie mondiale dans un environnement où les grandes banques centrales retirent peu à peu leurs mesures de soutien. En effet, les grandes banques centrales normalisent -à des rythmes différents- leur politique monétaire. La Fed a déjà entamé la réduction de la taille de son bilan et la BCE a arrêté son programme de rachat d'actif en décembre. Marchés d'actions Le MSCI AC a perdu -11.2% en devises locales et -6.7% en euros. Il s'agit globalement d'une année de forte baisse généralisée sur les marchés d'actions. En devises locales, les Etats-Unis ont baissé de -6.3%, la zone euro -14.7%, l'Europe de -13.1%, les marchés émergents de -12.3% et le Japon de 16.8%. L'année se divise en 4 périodes. Le mois de janvier a été positif dans la foulée de 2017, puis la baisse l'a emporté jusqu'à fin mars, la hausse des taux longs américains provoquant un premier décrochage, d'autant que fin mars la volonté de la maison blanche de corriger les déséquilibres bilatéraux de balance commerciale ont commencé à peser. S'en est suivie une période de divergence entre les Etats-Unis, soutenus par les effets positifs de sa réforme fiscale et le reste du monde jusqu'en octobre. Pour la seconde fois de l'année, la hausse des taux longs provoqua une chute généralisée des marchés d'actions, y compris du marché américain, et notamment des valeurs de technologie les plus en vue. La baisse s'est même accélérée en Décembre, fait historiquement très rare.

Paris, 13 February 2019

Amundi's Board of Directors, chaired by Xavier Musca, convened on 12 February 2019 to approve the financial statements for 2018.

Commenting on the figures, Yves Perrier, CEO, said:

"Despite an unfavourable market environment, Amundi's results increased sharply once again in 2018. There are two factors behind this improvement. First, business momentum remained strong, despite the market context, and benefited from Amundi's significant international presence, particularly in Asia. Second, the Pioneer integration has been a success, and the acquisition has significantly strengthened Amundi's business model; the integration was executed quickly and competently, and therefore the total amount of synergies has been increased to €175m per year".

<sup>3</sup> Growth rate calculated based on 2017 adjusted and combined net income excluding the exceptionally high level of financial income

<sup>4</sup> Inflows include assets under management, under advisory and assets sold, and take into account 100% of the Asian JVs' inflows and assets under management. For Wafa in Morocco, assets are reported on a proportional consolidation basis

<sup>6</sup> Financial revenues in Q4 2017 included capital gains on disposals, and Mark to Market was negative in Q4 2018 due to the decline in the markets

<sup>7</sup> Accretion target announced on 12/12/2016, including the full-year effect of synergies and excluding integration costs and amortisation of distribution contracts

I. Results

Annual results rose and were in line with the stated targets despite an unfavourable environment

Amundi's results rose once again in 2018: accounting net income increased by a sharp 25.5% compared with 2017. Adjusted net income reached €946m, up 3.1% compared with 2017<sup>8</sup>, and up 9% compared with 2017 excluding extraordinary financial revenues<sup>9</sup>.

These results are all the more remarkable given that the market environment became much less favourable since the second quarter. In 2018, most listed asset classes trended down and volatility was high. This led to heightened risk aversion, particularly among Retail clients. The environment had a negative impact on inflows and on performance fee generation. The increase in results reflects strong business activity and the successful integration of Pioneer, which allowed Amundi to reassess the amount of synergies (€175m instead of the €150m originally anticipated).

These strong results are in line with the targets announced in the three-year plan and demonstrate the soundness of Amundi's business model.

Full-year 2018

Accounting income<sup>10</sup> rose sharply in 2018, benefiting from the contribution of Pioneer (consolidated in H2 2017) and from growth momentum: accounting net income, Group share amounted to €855m, an increase of 25.5% compared with 2017.

Accounting EPS were €4.24, a sharp 19.8% increase compared with 2017.

Adjusted income<sup>11</sup>, which measures the Group's performance on a comparable basis, increased to €946m due mainly to lower operating expenses stemming from the realisation of Pioneer synergies.

- Net revenues<sup>12</sup> proved resilient at €2,582m (-5.2% compared with 2017<sup>8</sup>). This contraction was due to an unfavourable basis of comparison as 2017 benefited from an exceptionally high level of performance fees and financial income (related to disposals of interests ahead of the Pioneer acquisition and a favourable market environment). Net asset management revenue was virtually unchanged: the rise in net management fees (+1.9%) was offset by lower performance fees. Additionally, the negative market environment, particularly at the end of the year, had an adverse impact on financial income (mark-to-market valuation). The average margin<sup>13</sup> on assets under management held up well at 18.8bp of assets.
- Operating expenses<sup>14</sup> fell significantly (-6.8%), due to the rapid implementation of Pioneer-related cost synergies (€110m in 2018), and despite the additional external research expenses for MiFID II and the first reinvestments in growth.
- This led to a cost/income ratio<sup>11</sup> of 51.5%, an improvement of 0.9 pt<sup>8</sup>.
- The share of net income of equity-accounted entities (essentially Asian joint ventures) rose significantly to €50m (+50% compared with 2017<sup>8</sup>).
- In light of the lower tax rate, mainly due to the US tax reform, adjusted net income, Group share was €946m, up 3.1% compared with 2017<sup>8</sup> and up 9% compared with full-year 2017 excluding extraordinary financial revenues<sup>7</sup>.

<sup>8</sup> Comparison with combined 2017 data: 12 months Amundi + 12 months Pioneer

<sup>9</sup> Growth rate calculated based on 2017 adjusted and combined net income excluding the exceptional level of financial income

<sup>10</sup> Accounting income includes amortisation of distribution contracts and costs associated with the integration of Pioneer. In 2017, Pioneer was consolidated for only six months

<sup>11</sup> Excluding amortisation of distribution contracts and excluding costs associated with the integration of Pioneer

<sup>13</sup> Average margin: net asset management revenue (excluding performance fees)/average assets under management excluding JVs

Fourth-quarter 2018

Adjusted net income remained high (€225m) despite the negative effects of the market environment which had an adverse impact on revenues (-17.5%). Net asset management revenue contracted by 11.2% due mainly to the basis of comparison, as performance fees were particularly high in fourth-quarter 2017; net management fees were resilient, however, at -2.9%. This decrease in revenues was offset by a sharp decline in operating expenses (-14.6%). Excluding financial revenues in 2017 and 2018, adjusted net income was stable.

The sharp decline in expenses led to a cost/income ratio of 52.5%.

II. Business activity

Strong net inflows, driven by Retail, MLT<sup>15</sup> assets and International

Full-year 2018

Inflows remained high in 2018 (+€42bn), driven mainly by medium/long-term assets (+€36.3bn) and Retail (+€30.7bn<sup>16</sup>). Given the negative market effect (-€43bn) concentrated at the end of the year, assets under management reached €1,425bn at 31 December 2018, stable over 12 months.

The quarterly inflow pattern was particularly unusual, as most of the flows were generated at the beginning of the year: Q1: +€39.8bn, Q2: +€2.6bn, Q3: +€6.1bn and Q4: -€6.5bn.

These trends were consistent with a sharply declining European asset management market<sup>17</sup> (+€62bn in 2018 compared with +€846bn in 2017) with outflows accelerating at the end of the year.

Net inflows were strong once again in the Retail segment (+€30.7bn<sup>16</sup>) but slowed significantly at the end of the year against the backdrop of heightened risk aversion in Europe. Of note for the full year:

- Momentum was very strong for net inflows in the Asian JVs (mainly in China and India) where assets under management reached €142bn at end-2018;
- Net inflows held up well in the French networks, thanks to MLT assets (Unit-Linked and discretionary portfolio management);
- Net inflows in the International networks remained positive, particularly in Italy (+€4.3bn with discretionary portfolio management and Unit-Linked) thanks to the partnership with UniCredit;
- The slowdown was sharper for Third-party distributors, where inflows remained positive in 2018 (excluding the €6.5bn in assets reinternalised by Fineco in Q3 2018), but were affected at the end of the year by heightened risk aversion.

Annual inflows in the Institutions and Corporates segment were strong (+€11bn) despite a more challenging year end. Of note for the full year:

- Institutions and Sovereigns: a high level of annual net inflows (primarily in MLT products) despite the termination of two mandates (-€6bn) at the end of the year;
- Corporates: treasury product outflows (concentrated in Q2), but a high level of MLT asset activity (mainly in Corporate pension funds);
- Employee Savings: an excellent 2018 (net inflows of +€2.7bn versus +€1bn in 2017), which confirms this business line's growth potential (strengthened by the possibilities offered by the Pacte law in France).

All asset classes contributed to net inflows in 2018. Medium/long-term assets represented +€36.3bn (+€42.8bn excluding reinternalisation of the Fineco asset management mandate), and treasury product activity was lower this year.

Trends were particularly favourable for the growth drivers developed several years ago:

- Passive management and smart beta<sup>18</sup>: another year of strong business activity, with +€14bn in net inflows in 2018, bringing AuM to €95bn at end-2018, a 5.6% increase vs. end-2017.
  - ETFs: net inflows in 2018 of +€3.8bn (no. 4 among European ETF providers<sup>19</sup>), bringing AuM to €38.6bn at end-2018 (fourth-largest European player)<sup>19</sup>
- Real and alternative assets<sup>18</sup>: steady growth with 2018 net inflows increasing to +€3.5bn (vs. +€2.3bn in 2017), in particular in Real Estate, Private Debt and Private Equity.

Lastly, net inflows continued to be driven by the International segment. Activity was brisk in Asia in the JVs (in China and India) as well as in Hong Kong and Taiwan. Activity remained strong in Italy (+€8.2bn<sup>20</sup>) as well as in Europe (mainly in Germany and the Netherlands). In France, business activity was strong in MLT assets (+€9.5bn in 2018), offset by treasury product outflows in Corporates.

Fourth-quarter 2018

Flows were negative at -€6.5bn in fourth-quarter 2018, even though the Retail segment was resilient (+€0.5bn) thanks to the Asian JVs and the still-positive business activity in the French networks (+€0.5bn). In Institutions, net outflows of -€7.0bn can be attributed mainly to the termination of two sovereign client mandates; the Corporates segment nevertheless performed well at the end of the year (+€1.8bn, mainly in MLT assets).

III. Dividend and financial position

An attractive dividend policy

The Board of Directors has decided to propose a dividend of €2.90 per share in cash at the General Meeting to be held on 16 May 2019, i.e. an increase of +16% vs. 2017.

This dividend offer represents a payout ratio of 65% of the Group's share of net income excluding integration costs (based on the number of shares at end-2018), and a 5.9% yield based on the share price on 8 February 2019 (at the close). Shares shall be designated ex-dividend on 24 May 2019 and paid out as from 28 May 2019.

A strengthened financial structure

Once again, Amundi's financial structure was solid at end-2018. Tangible equity<sup>21</sup> amounted to €2.3bn, a €0.4bn increase compared with end-2017.

In June 2018, rating agency Fitch reiterated Amundi's A+ rating with a stable outlook, the best in the sector.

IV. Conclusion and outlook

Amundi's growth trend in 2018 confirmed the resilience of its business model: the integration of Pioneer is almost complete and has been successful.

This year's results are in line with the path outlined in February 2018. In a less buoyant environment, Amundi remains in a strong position to continue its profitable growth, based on the following strategic priorities:

- Continue to expand in each of its business lines, by taking advantage of its leadership position in the Retail networks and accelerating its penetration among institutional and corporate clients,
- Forge new distribution partnerships, in particular in Europe and Asia,
- Continue to promote its range of products and services,
- Expand its presence along the value chain, mainly by developing Amundi Services,
- Strengthen its responsible investor positioning to meet clients' growing expectations.

Methodological appendix

I. 2018 Income statement

1. Accounting data

In 2018, the data corresponds to 12 months of activity for Amundi and 12 months of Pioneer's activity. In 2017, the data corresponds to 12 months of activity for Amundi and six months of activity for Pioneer, which has been consolidated since 1 July 2017.

2. Adjusted data

To present an income statement that is closer to the economic reality, the following adjustments have been made:

- 2018: restatement of Pioneer-related integration costs and amortisation of distribution contracts (deducted from net revenues) with SG, BAWAG and UniCredit.
- 2017: restatement of Pioneer-related integration costs and amortisation of distribution contracts (deducted from net revenues) with SG and BAWAG over twelve months and with UniCredit over six months (as the contract with UniCredit did not start until Q3 2017).

3. Combined data

The combined data are different from the pro forma data (as presented in the 2016 Registration Document), which included restatements for the financing assumptions for the acquisition of Pioneer: additional financing costs, reduced financial income.

Note on combined and accounting data

Costs associated with the integration of Pioneer Investments:

Costs associated with the integration of Pioneer:

- 2018: €56m before tax and €42m after tax
- 2017: €135m before tax and €88m after tax

Amortisation of distribution contracts:

- 2018: €71m before tax and €50m after tax
- 2017: €44m before tax and €30m after tax

II. Amortisation of distribution contracts with UniCredit

When Pioneer was acquired, 10-year distribution contracts were entered into with UniCredit networks in Italy, Germany, Austria, and the Czech Republic; the gross valuation of these contracts came to €546m (posted to the balance sheet under Intangible Assets). At the same time, a Deferred Tax Liability of €161m was recognised. Thus the net amount is €385m which is amortised using the straight-line method over 10 years, as from 1 July 2017.

In the Group's income statement, the net tax impact of this amortisation is €38m over a full year (or €55m before tax), posted under "Other revenues," and is added to existing amortisations of the SG and Bawag distribution contracts of €11m after tax over a full year (€17m before tax).

III. Alternative Performance Indicator

Adjusted net income

In order to present a performance indicator that is closer to economic reality, Amundi publishes adjusted net income, which is reconciled with accounting net income, Group share in the following manner:
